STATE-WIDE PROHIBITION

The campaign for State-wide prohibition was opened in the Gila valley Saturday night, at Solomonville, when G. F. Rinehart, State Superintendent of the Temperance Federation, addressed a meeting in that town.

Meetings were held Sunday in Thatcher, Pima, Central and Safford. The meeting in Thatcher was attended by over one thousand people and was a great success.

Monday a meeting was held at Ft. Thomas and Tuesday a large crowd was present at the meeting in Eden.

State-wide prohibition is the real thing. It is no subterfuge that allows one to placate his conscience by voting out the saloons and provide a method to keep the liquor traffic alive, so that he can get his "tank full" in other ways. It means striking at the root of the evil, forever destroying the liquor traffic even to be used as a medicine, the most hypocritical method devised for the purpose of selling alcoholic liquors.

The liquor business, whether conducted in the open saloon or drug store, is a business regulated by the profits secured from its sale. Take away the profits and no man will sell it and it ceases to become a business.

If the amendment for State-wide prohibition is successfully carried at the election, November 3d, it will prevent the manufacture in the State of any alcoholic liquors. It will also prevent the importation into the State of alcoholic liquors. It will mean that Arizona, the youngest State in the Union, has taken the lead and shown the way for nation-wide prohibition and the curse of mankind will cease to become a business to allow men to barter the souls of the weak that they may become rich and prosperous.

Local option is a farce, a subterfuge employed by those who are not honestly in favor of prohibiting the sale and use of alcoholic liquors. It is the means used to close the open saloon and reserve to yourself the right to drink all you can get and also as a weapon of persecution to put one person out of business for the benefit of a friend, to cut off the profits of one legalized under its provisions to sell liquor that the other or others wish to protect may have the field to themselves and incidentally all the profits.

Local option is the breeder of drunkards, criminals and hypocrites. It keeps alive the liquor business under the semblance of prohibition. It does more harm in its insidious way than the open saloon.

But State-wide prohibition will change all this. No alcoholic liquors of any kind can be manufactured within the State, neither can they be imported into the State. The liquor business will be destroyed at the root, for doctors will not dare prescribe it for their patients and the business will end as the profits cease.

Recently in Washington, D. C., a meeting was held of the American Society for the Study of Alcohol. This society is composed of leading scientists, college professors, heads of great sanitariums and eminent medical authorities.

The papers read on this occasion were the highest authority in the world on the question of the use of alcohol, and the United States Senate, by unanimous vote, ordered the papers printed as a government document. This document is known as Senate Document, No. 48, and its title page states that it contains the most authoritative conclusions upon this subject.

Recent research and chemical analysis and the united experience of all these eminent authorities, led to but one conclusion and that was: "That alcoholic liquor of any kind, in any dose, was positively injurious to the human system. That it had no place in therapeutics and that it was dangerous to be employed for any person; that it was a narcotic poison and always, under all circumstances, a depressant, and that there was no purpose for which it ever had been employed, even for its drug action, that some other and better drug had not been found to take its place."

A remarkable feature of this document is that in 179 printed pages, giving more than two dozen papers and quoting one hundred authorities, there is no dissenting voice.

Practically all admitted that they had used liquor in the early days of their practice, but that they had found by experience and new scientific discoveries that they were doing the worse possible thing for their patients. No medical practitioner, who makes any pretense of being up-to-date, will use alcoholic liquor any more in his practice.

The proposed constitutional amendment for Arizona does not prevent the use of alcohol in tinctures as a solvent or binder for other drugs, but does prevent the use of alcoholic liquor as liquor under any pretense whatever.

ENFORCING PROHIBITION

China has made it against the law to use opium, and China is going to enforce its prohibition law.

For instance, it has made the penalty of violating the opium law not a fine or a prison sentence, but a death punishment.

So determined are the authorities to break up this nation-wide dope habit that the most extreme measures are used. In the province of Chentu orders have been issued to shoot all opium smokers under 40; over that age they will be sent to jail and reformatory measures tried, or else the users allowed to linger along in their habit and literally smoke out their lives. The mercy is extended to them because it is realized that by that time of life the habit, has so fastened itself upon them that indulgence is absolutely necessary.

But if the person is young, vigorous of body and new to the pipe, it is considered that he does what he could readily avoid, and that he is voluntarily learning a forbidden habit, and it is not worth time fooling with him, so he is sent to be devoured by the bullets of the executioners.

Civilized nations look on this as appalling in its barbarity, and yet it done more in an effort at law enforcement and national preservation than in a spirit of savagery. The authorities say in effect to the people: "Here is the law, and here is the punishment; you will kill yourselves by degrees if you use the opium; we will kill you quick if you break the law."

It is death either way, so the Chinese judge believes the quick route is the best, and there is no appeal from the sentence. The first victim of the law was a woman, and her death sent a shudder around the world; but in the end China showed she was right not to regard the sex, for at once the people realized that the law was in earnest and there would be no playing of favorites. The very hideousness of the act carried its own convincing weight, and executions in that special town have been few, if, indeed, there have been any.

China understands one thing, and that is that there is no use having a law unless it is enforced. If she adheres to her present rigid rule it will not be long before opium smoking ceases to be a national habit and menace.

NEW EXTENSION WORK

The University of Arizona has already taken the initial steps to avail itself of the appropriations provided by the recent Federal act for extension work in agriculture and home economics. Prof. Morse has been made superintendent of the extension department. This work will be pursued vigorously in the coming year. The department of agriculture of the University will send members of its own faculty frequently to the various parts of the State to address gatherings and associations on farm topics. It is now planned to appoint a county adviser for Maricopa county, to be always on the ground for expert advice and service. One other agent, with Prof. Morse, will perform the service for the smaller agricultural areas of the State. The University has already begun a search for a competent demonstrator in home economics and it is intended to secure an excellent portable outfit to serve the purpose of demonstration in home economics. Individuals and women's clubs throughout the State should correspond with the University to secure the service of the demonstrator.

SHE DIDN'T WANT MUCH

Texas Woman Writes Land Office for Complete Information

I want the whole contents of the Phoenix land office."

Those words would have conveyed practically all the information it took Mrs. W. F. Hendrix, of Tulsa, Texas, in four closely written pages to tell about. Her letter was addressed to a land attorney here, and these are some of the things it requests:

"Complete data on public lands in Arizona.

"Special information about enterable lands south and west of Phoenix to the Mexican line, north of Phoenix to Holbrook, and east to the New Mexico State boundary, with particular reference to tracts in the White mountains.

"A map of Arizona showing available public lands.

"A township map.

"Information regarding the powers of a man and his wife to take up public lands, providing they have never used their 'head right' to settle upon public lands—although the woman six years ago did apply for entry. They now own 'no land except a few town lots and forty acres close to Tulsa.'"

"And any other LITTLE things the kindly disposed register, receiver, clerks and attaches think proper to send along."

"We'll just pack up the office and send it to her," commented Receiver Birdno, on being told of Mrs. Hendrix's modest requests.—Arizona Republican.

CUNIFF A CANDIDATE

M. G. Cuniff, of Crown King, Arizona, is said to be a candidate for president of the University of Arizona, succeeding Dr. H. A. Wilde, whose resignation has been accepted. Cuniff came to Tucson and is said to have pressed his claim orally before members of the board of regents. He is said to have been told to file his application in writing.

Gov. Hunt, when interviewed by long distance telephone at Phoenix, evidenced surprise. He said he had heard Mr. Cuniff say he was not a candidate for the office. Mr. Cuniff is a Harvard graduate, a former editor of World's Work, in New York City, taught in Harvard University and the University of Wisconsin, and is now engaged in mining.

ARIZONA'S FIRST CAPITOL

Arizona's first capitol is no more. The old log building, on West Gurley street, Prescott, so long one of the most interesting landmarks in the State, has been torn down to make room for a modern structure. It was built as a residence, but was purchased by the Territory in 1885 and used until 1889, when Phoenix was made the capital. For a time it was used by the city for a school.

TIMBER SALES

Athol A. Wynne, of the office of Silviculture, left Albuquerque, June 5th, to examine an important block of timber valued at more than half a million dollars within the Sitgreaves National Forest. This timber has already been advertised for sale at a price of $2.50 for the first five years and $3.00 for the next five years, but the company interested in financing the railroad and milling operations was unable to raise the requisite amount of capital. Mr. Wynne's examination is to determine whether the prices at which the timber was advertised is equitable; whether the boundaries are logical and convenient, and as a result of his appraisal it is hoped to put the sale on a thoroughly sound business basis.

Indigestion and Constipation

"About five years ago I began taking Chamberlain's Tablets after suffering from indigestion and constipation for years without finding anything to relieve me. Chamberlain's Tablets helped me at once and by using them for several weeks I was cured of the complaint," writes Mrs. Mary E. McMullen, Phelps, N. Y. For sale by Safford Drug Co. adv-16-4t

She Liked Her Yob
A suburban housewife relates overbearing this conversation between her new maid and the cook next door:
"How are you, Hilda?"
"I'm well," said Hilda. "I like my yob. We got cremated cellar, cemetery plumbing, elastic lights and a hoosit."
"What's a 'hoosit,' Hilda?" the puzzled cook exclaimed.
"Oh, a hell rings. You put a thing to your ear and say: 'Hello,' and someone says: 'Hello,' and you say: 'Hoosit.'"
